

FRUIT-GROWERS ARE IN SESSION

Hundred Horticulturists of Virginia Attending Meeting in Lynchburg.

ADDRESS OF PRESIDENT

He Declares Old Dominion Applies Good as Best, but Must Be Advertised.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LYNCHBURG, VA., January 6.—The thirteenth annual convention of the Virginia State Horticultural Society convened this morning at 10 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A., there being present 100 members in the city at the time. A number of residents of the city, including some ladies, were present to listen to the proceedings. President George E. Murrell presided over the session.

The addresses and discussions of the morning hour were of a very high order, and if these can be taken as a criterion for those to follow, the convention is going to be one that will aid materially in the development of the fruit industry of the Old Dominion.

The convention was called to order by the president, and Dr. William A. Barr, the rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, invoked divine blessing upon the convention of welcome.

Dr. James D. Paxton, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, speaking on behalf of the Civic League, delivered the address of welcome. The short talk was characteristic of the speaker, and it put the visiting members of the society in a good humor.

Dr. Paxton said to Lynchburg, "You are not contented, and you want better results. Your purpose is betterment, and any aggression of men with this object in view ought to be welcome anywhere." Dr. Paxton said he was glad he did not own an orchard, for he had his hands full as a pastor. He knew the orchard owner had trouble with the scale and rot, etc., while he had trouble with the Beezebub scale and had to get his congregation together every Sunday morning for spraying.

The only trouble with this spraying process was that the people who need it most are not at the spraying.

Dr. M. L. McCue, of Greenwood, and Professor W. B. Alvord, of Charlottesville, responded to Dr. Paxton's remarks. Dr. McCue said he was proud of Virginia and he would be ashamed of any man who was not. He declared the men were here to co-operate and find out how to raise better fruit, because all had learned that none paid so well as the best.

Dr. Alvord paid a high tribute to the society and told of his first visit to Lynchburg, twenty years ago, when he came to what was then called a "fruit school." He traced the growth of the fruit industry, showing something of the wonderful development of the two decades.

President George E. Murrell, in his annual address, reviewed the history and work of the society since its organization, and he declared that the past year has seen more accomplished than in any other year.

After the last meeting in Staunton part of the exhibit of apples there shown in Virginia, North and South Carolina, and Washington of Virginia apples, these exhibits having been made possible by an appropriation made by the State Board of Agriculture, amounting to $1,500, these exhibits attracting widespread and favorable comment.

President Murrell continued: "After the last meeting in Staunton part of the exhibit of apples there shown was placed in Woodward & Lothrop's store in Washington, where it proved an effective object lesson for two weeks or more. It was then distributed among prospective buyers as an education to superior quality of this Virginia apples. So favorably has this method of advertisement proved that it has been arranged this season to renew this exhibit, and place a similar one in New York, so as to awaken both buyer and consumer to the excellence of what we have to offer.

"In the work thus so far done, not only has the advertisement of our side made known to the far-reaching advertising interest and cordiality between this society, members of the Legislature, the Department of Agriculture and the people in general, that will leave an impression upon the society's future that cannot be gauged by mere monetary appreciation. All this is gratifying, but it marks but the first step in the race for market supremacy.

"A prominent New York buyer recently told me: 'If you pack your apples in boxes in the Pacific coast style, buyers will not know the difference, and they will pay the same price for them as they will for the inferior ones.' They will get apples of a better quality."

Better Advertised.
"If our apples cannot be sold from Pacific coast apples, and are superior in quality, why should they have to pass for these apples to prevent discrimination in price? The answer is: The Pacific coast apples have obtained established reputation through liberal advertising and greater attention to cultivation.

"Similar methods will place Virginia apples on the same footing with the extra quality to bring an extra price. This can only be done by unfettered striving to increase the percentage of fancy fruits grown and constantly advertising.

"Let these problems be a constant source of study and realize and teach your friends to realize that the State

Horticultural Society is a free school of assistance to this end, and that every new scholar added to the roll marks the nearer approach of that State-wide reputation and monetary profit that individually and alone we can never attain.

"In closing, I wish to express my appreciation to the membership for past official honors I have received at their hands, and at the same time record my belief that the position should not be perpetuated beyond a biennial term, consequently I am not a candidate for re-election, and, retiring, pledge the same cordial support to my successor that has been so generously accorded me, and for which I sincerely thank you."

Report of Secretary.

The report of the secretary, Walter Whately, of Crozet, Albemarle county, shows that a large amount of business has been transacted during the year through the office, much of this being in correspondence, the issuance of circulars, and the circulation of the membership list.

The membership was shown to be 245, a higher number than ever before on the rolls of the society. It shows that the advantages of membership in the organization are just beginning to be appreciated by the fruit growers of the State.

Mr. Whately's report as secretary was very exhaustive in detail, and full of much interest to the members who listened to it.

The addresses of the morning were by Hon. A. McNeil, of Canada, chief of the fruit division, and S. B. Woods, of Charlottesville, the former speaking as to the regulations in Canada as to the marking and packing of fruit, and the latter as to express rates in the State.

News of Petersburg

Times-Dispatch Bureau,
105 North Sycamore Street,
Petersburg, Va., January 6.

The community was painfully shocked this morning to learn of the sudden death at a late hour last night, at his home, on Marshall Street, of Mr. Chester A. Shepherd, a widely known and honored citizen. Mr. Shepherd, in his usual good health, last night attended the meeting of Appomattox Commandery, No. 9, of which he was a member and prelate, and remained until the close of the meeting. On his way home he conversed pleasantly with several friends, and on reaching home was taken suddenly ill of heart trouble. The attack proved fatal, death resulting about 11 o'clock, before a physician could be gotten to him.

Mr. Shepherd was a native of Petersburg, and had resided here all his life. For years he had been employed as chief bookkeeper in the wholesale shoe house of A. Wright & Co. He was a quiet, upright, many-sided man, a devoted Christian worker. His genial and courteous manners and gentle disposition attracted the friendship of all who knew him.

Mr. Shepherd was in the sixty-first year of his age, and his funeral will take place at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning from the Market Street M. E. church, of which he was the treasurer and long an active and valued member. He is survived by his wife and two sons—George and Irving—who are students at the University of Virginia. Mr. Shepherd was past commander of Appomattox Commandery, past master of Blandford Lodge, No. 1, of Masons, a member of A. P. Hill Camp of Confederate Veterans, and of the City School Board. He was one of a committee of three members of the School Board to prepare resolutions of respect to the memory of Walter M. Winfree, another member of the board, who died yesterday morning.

Non-Supporting Husbands.

Two white men—George W. Dillard and Walter Beach—were before the Police Court this morning to answer the complaint of their respective wives of non-support for themselves and children, who are represented as being in destitute condition. Both parties were sent to the Hustings Court for trial, and bailed for their appearance.

It is understood that the Petersburg Motor-Boat Club will have no more races on the river until milder weather comes—some time in the spring perhaps.

The Common Council yesterday afternoon took no action in the matter of raising the grade of Second and River Streets to meet the plans of the Norfolk and Western Railway Company for the erection of the new passenger station and other improvements. The matter was referred to the Street Committee.

The Finance Committee had referred back to it and to the City Attorney for opinion an ordinance creating the office of clerk to committees and prescribing his pay and duties.

Peterburg Eagle of Eagles installed its new officers last night and enjoyed a special social session afterwards. The names of the officers were published in The Times-Dispatch at the time of their election.

Personal and Otherwise.

The marriage in Washington on Monday of Miss Mary Blair Walker, of Charlottesville, and Mr. Samuel Watts Zimmer, of this city, was a pleasant surprise to the many friends of the popular young attorney.

Sales of loose tobacco at the warehouse in this city will be resumed to-morrow. The sales, however, will be light. The season for handling has been good this week, and the expectation is that the offerings next week will be large.

Rumor has it that another trunk and bag factory is to be started in this city, and also a fertilizing factory.

Mr. Charles Burnett, a former employee of the city, was bitten on the hand by a snake which he was attempting to kill on Monday. The snake, which was about three feet long, ran under a ledge of rock, leaving a part of its body exposed. Mr. Burnett attempted to cut the body in two with his knife, when it struck back and bit him, causing the blood to flow. Mr. Burnett sucked the blood from his hand and has felt no ill effects.

Visit of Union Veterans.

Several members of the battlefield committee of the Third Division, Ninth Army Corps, Pennsylvania Veterans, are in the city to-day. They came to inspect the work on the foundation of the old Confederate Fort Mahone, near George county, in memory of the dead of General Hartranft's division, for which the State of Pennsylvania appropriated a large sum of money. It is expected that the monument will be ready for unveiling in May, and the Governor of Pennsylvania and a large number of Union veterans will attend the exercises.

The work on the diversion channel through Chesterfield county has been practically completed, with the exception of the removal of the ledge of rock just outside of Pocahontas. The appropriation for the work has been nearly exhausted.

Bishop's Bridge across the Appomattox will be closed to the public for repairs from Thursday evening to Sunday morning.

The Rev. John M. B. Gill, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Gill, of this city, left this morning for New York, whence on January 9th he will go to San Francisco to sail for China. He will devote himself to missionary work in that country. Mr. Gill is a popular young minister of the Episcopal Church.

Rengo Belt

$2.00 Corsets Worth $3.00

RENGO BELT is a new corset designed especially to do away with the appearance of excess flesh. The RENGU BELT, reinforcing belt and apron front, woned into the body of the corset and over the abdomen, is in just the right place to produce the smooth back and slender hip lines so widely advocated in advance dress models.

RENGO BELT is the most wonderful corset ever produced for medium and large figures. It gives a sloping waist line which flows snugly over the hips, and has length below the waist to make the stout figure trim and proportionate.

RENGO BELT corsets also have extra strength due to the double watch spring steel boning, which is twice as durable as the usual single boning. This boning is perfectly covered and made rustless before it is sewed into the corsets, and we guarantee that it will not break or punch through.

If you have searched unsuccessfully for corsets that will actually give graceful back and hip lines with perfect comfort, you should be properly fitted with a RENGU BELT.
